SLAV205301

Introduction to Comparative Slavic Linguistics

Woolhiser, Curt F

Fall 2024

An introduction to the history and linguistic typology of the Slavic languages. We will begin with a brief survey of the reconstructed Common Slavic proto-language and its relationship to the other branches of the Indo-European language family. We will examine the disintegration of Late Common Slavic into three main subgroups: East, South, and West Slavic. Our survey of the modern Slavic languages will focus on the most important similarities and differences with regard to their writing, sound, nominal and verbal systems. Using a variety of modern Slavic languages as examples, we will also address topics of current interest to linguists worldwide: language, ethnic identity, and political borders; language ideology and standardization; the role of language contact in linguistic evolution, and language endangerment and language revitalization.

Society and National Identity in the Balkans

Dakova, Mariela

Fall 2024

An overview of ethnic, cultural, and religious diversity among peoples of the Balkans (Albanians, Bosnians, Bulgarians, Croats, Greeks, Macedonians, Romanians, Serbs, Slovenes, Jews, Turks, and gypsies [Roma]). It is a study of what constitutes the various parameters of identity: linguistic typologies, religious diversity (Catholicism, Orthodoxy, Islam, and Judaism), culture, and social class. An analysis of the origins of nationalism, the emergence of nation-states, and contemporary nationalism as a source of instability and war in the Balkans will be considered.

Introduction to Slavic Peoples and Cultures

Lin, Tony H

Fall 2024

Introduction to Slavic Peoples and Cultures (formerly Slavic Civilizations) is a gateway course that satisfies the Cultural Diversity core and is required for both Russian and Slavic majors. The course is designed to familiarize students with major topics, such as languages and religions in Eastern Europe, and the formation of nation states and identities. Special attention will be paid to major events in Slavic cultural history, from the appearance of Slavs in history to the rise and fall of the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. We will study these events not only through literary texts but also works of art, music, and film. The course is taught entirely in English with no prerequisites.
